

INVITATION

INTERNATIONAL FORUM FOR RESPONSIBLE TOURISM

The International Forum for Responsible Tourism has reached its sixth edition. It is a world renowned event, at the previous editions having had top professionals from Romania, Europe, Asia, USA, as well as representatives of public authorities, scholars and researchers, leaders of representative organisations, and promoters of the field.

The Forum mission: Developing communities' capacity of becoming more appealing.

IFRT, VITH EDITION

Theme: "Local attractions and the development of responsible tourism"

Date: 10th – 11th May 2018

Our special guest this year is dr. Harold Goodwin, the remarkable researcher who defined, theorized, and popularized the concept of responsible tourism.

Dr. Harold Goodwin has worked across four continents with local communities, with governments, and in the tourism industry. He is an emeritus professor and the director of the Institute of Place Management at Manchester Metropolitan University, General Manager of the Responsible Tourism Partnership and World Travel Market consultant on their Responsible Tourism Program in London, which gathers over 2000 participants each year. He is both president of the World Responsible Tourism Awards.

Moreover, dr. Goodwin is the director and founder of the International Centre for Responsible Tourism since 2002, which promotes the principles of the Cape Town Declaration.

The conferences on 10th and 11th May will be followed up by an intensive course taught by Harold Goodwin and Crista Buznea (TUI / Future Forward Travel). The general theme is: Management in responsible tourism and will talk about certain key aspects:

- Local economic growth;
- Managing authenticity and experiences;
- Territory management;
- Managing destinations.

The participants joining Harold Goodwin's course will be granted a certificate issued by the Amfiteatre Foundation and the International Centre for Responsible Tourism.

FORUM AGENDA

- Local attraction – the starting point for the touristic act;
- Territory management and developing strategies;
- Natural attractions – from responsible capitalisation to protection;
- Anthropic attractions and entrepreneurship;
- Creative tourism, marketing and technology.

OBJECTIVES

The proposed program will materialise in:

- Establishing direct relations with organisations and European institutions involved in longterm development in order to cooperate with;
- Developing the collaboration between entrepreneurs in creative fields and services with the purpose of raising the quality of sights and programs destined to both locals and visitors;
- Including products and touristic destinations in the European circuit of hospitality and responsible tourism;
- Dissemination of good practice of responsible tourism;
- Developing strategies of responsible community capitalisation through tourism;
- Accessing European and national funding destined for development and promotion of local attractions;
- Concrete solutions for responsible capitalisation on anthropic and natural attractions.

We strongly believe in communities' sustainable development and that one can achieve this objective through responsible tourism based on local resources. This event has an agenda of developing strategies of responsible capitalisation on both anthropic and natural attractions with the aim of raising citizens' standard of living. Considering your work which prioritises citizens' well-being, we believe the IFRT is of great interest to you. If you share our belief, we would very much appreciate your participation in the event as well as a dissemination of this information to whom might be interested in our objectives too.
